NEARING THE EQUATOR

Few Hundred Miles From Pernambuco, Brazil, A Short Cruise

FERNANDO DE NORONHA, May 22.—(INS)—The Graf Zeppelin, speedily nearing its South America goal, was reported in a position 1 degree north, 34 degrees west, due north of Pernambuco and within a few miles of the Equator in a message received by the wireless station here at 10 a. m. today (9 a. m. Eastern Daylight Time). The Zeppelin was expected to cross the Equator within an hour. It will be the first time a dirigible has pushed its bulk across the "belt of the world."

The Graf, according to latest reports, will arrive at Pernambuco about 5 o'clock this afternoon (4 p. m. eastern daylight time). The position given at 10 o'clock was approximately 500 miles due north of Pernambuco.

NEW YORK, May 22.—(INS)—The Mackay radio station, at Sayville, L. I., early today reported reception of a message from the Graf Zeppelin, giving the Brazil-bound air liner's position at 2.45 a. m. G. M. T., (10.45 p. m., Wednesday, E. D. T.) at 05.48 north latitude and 27.26 west longitude. The message said the Graf, aided by an 8 to 10 mile wind was making 74 miles an hour.

This placed the airship 348 miles northeast of the point where she will cross the Equator a short distance beyond the St. Paul Rocks on a true course to Pernambuco, Brazil.

Pernambuco, was about 830 miles away—about 12 hours cruising at the Graf's present rate of speed.

The Radio Corporation of America announced that their Radio Marine station at Chatham, Mass., reported the Graf's position at 1 a. m. G. M. T., (9 p. m. Wednesday E. D. T.) as 08.30 north latitude and 26.30 west longitude.

Sunday School Workers Meet Here Tomorrow

A convention of the workers of the Fifth District, Sunday School Association of Bucks County, will take place at the First Baptist Church, here, tomorrow, with two sessions, one in the afternoon and the second at night.

Rev. George F. Hess, pastor of the Bristol M. E. Church, will deliver the afternoon address at three o'clock. His subject will be "Christian Education in the Bible Schools." Greetings will be extended by the county officers, and the heads of the numerous departments will make reports.

The business session will be followed by a question box conducted by the Rev. William M. Yeomans, pastor of the Bristol Presbyterian Church.

The evening meeting will be called to order at 7.45, and a speaker of merit, from Trenton, N. J., will be present. Special music will be given by the choir of the hostess church at both sessions. In the evening reports will be made by the nominating committee, and election of officers will take place.

Croydon Committee Worked In Interest of Gifford Pinchot

The Republican committee of Croydon denies as positively false a report being circulated to the effect that the members of the committee worked at the primary election in the interest of Francis Shunk Brown for governor. The committee makes the emphatic statement that it worked in the interest of Gifford Pinchot.

GIFFORD PINCHOT HAILS HIS GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION AS A VICTORY FOR "THE FORCES OF CLEAN GOVERNMENT" IN STATEMENT TODAY

"We've Won; Let the Other Side Do the Talking" is Remark
Made by the One-Time Governor — Expresses
His Profound Gratitude

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—(INS)—Gifford Pinchot, a successful Republican gubernatorial nominee, hailed his nomination today as a victory for "the forces of clean government."

"The forces of clean government have won," he declared.

"Every worker for honest government shares the credit and the glory. As nominee of the Republican party I am profoundly grateful."

"We've won. Let the other side do the talking," he said as he and Mrs. Pinchot retired to their suite at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel here.

Former Governor Gifford Pinchot has won the Republican nomination for Governor over Francis Shunk Brown by a plurality which now stands at 10,950 votes, with unofficial returns missing from 212 of the 8,701 election districts in Pennsylvania.

The vote reported from the State primary Tuesday in 8,489 districts was: Pinchot, 618,504; Brown, 608,454; Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., 260,283.

Mr. Pinchot and his campaign managers assert his final lead over the former Attorney General will go to 30,000, as nearly all the unreported precincts are in counties where a majority of the Republican voters favored his candidacy. More conservative estimates place the ultimate Pinchot plurality at about 20,000.

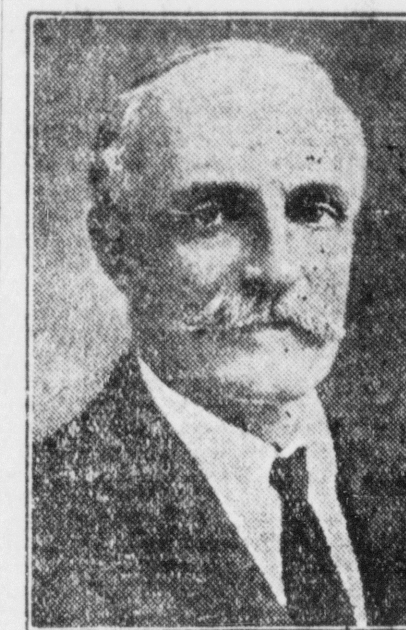

One county, Lackawanna, swung from Pinchot to Brown in the returns received overnight, but the former Governor still has sixty of the sixty-seven counties to his credit. Brown carried six—Chester, Delaware, Lackawanna, Lancaster, Lehigh and Philadelphia. The other county, Erie, gave a plurality to Phillips, candidate of the "wet" forces.

The lead of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who was nominated for United States Senator on the Republican ticket, has mounted to 238,860 over Senator Joseph R. Grundy in the districts thus far reported.

The Senatorial vote stands: Davis, 715,139; Grundy, 476,279; Francis H. Bohlen, "wet" candidate, 233,837.

Managers of the Davis-Brown ticket still refuse to concede defeat of their gubernatorial candidate, Bernard J. Myers, campaign committee chairman, and his assistant, William R. Douglas, assert they have received private reports from county leaders indicating the former Attorney General might pull through when the missing votes are reported.

Returns not as complete as those on the Republican fight for Senator and Governor show there is no doubt that the other winners were Brigadier General Edward C. Shannon for Lieutenant Governor, Philip H. Dewey for Secretary of Internal Affairs, Judge George W. Maxey for Supreme Court Justice, and Judges William B. Linn and James B. Drew for the two Superior Court places.

General Shannon's total in unofficial returns from 39 counties was 415,771. Charles F. Armstrong, running-mate of Gifford Pinchot, had 235,469. The incomplete totals for the same territory for Charles Dorrance, Scranton, wet candidate, was 169,822, and that of Frank P. B. Thompson, of Philadelphia, 27,930.

Mr. Dewey got 376,568 votes. His nearest rival, James F. Woodward, present secretary, who has been in office since 1919, got 222,417.

The vote in the 36 counties was: Linn, 493,246; Graff, 274,779; Drew, 498,912.

CROWN MAY QUEEN AMID LARGE CIRCLE OF CATALPA TREES

Greensward of Grundy Park
Transfigured Into Regular Fairland

HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE

School Girls Garbed in Bright-
Hued Paper Gowns Participate in Dances

'Neath cloudless skies, on the greensward at Grundy park was Bristol's May Queen, Miss Gertrude Roberts, crowned yesterday afternoon.

The ceremony, held in connection with Girls' Week, amid beautiful surroundings, was a most pleasing spectacle, the multi-colored costumes of the attendants and dancers adding to the attractiveness of the exercises.

Shortly after 2.30 o'clock the herald, Miss Elsie Rockhill, announced the approach of the Queen; and then the numerous groups approached the throne, taking their respective places behind the platform arranged for the occasion.

There were a few hundred girls from the several public schools of the borough, garbed as flowers, the costumes being fashioned of bright-hued crepe paper. Included in the groups were: Maypole dancers; scarf dancers; butterflies, rope jumping group with flower-decked ropes, gladiolus girls, daffodils, iris group, marigolds, buttercups, forget-me-nots, sweet peas, tea roses, American beauties and violets.

Next in the procession were the flower girls, eight in number, these tots dressed in white and wearing white hats, each carrying a basket of spring blossoms. These were: Gloria Agresta, Dora Corradetti, Marilyn Craig, Thelma Custer, Jan Lynch, Emma Sharp, Carolyn Spencer, Ruth Swan.

The attendants of the queen were: Misses Catherine Armstrong, Catherine Bue, Mildred Cahall, Virginia Cameron, Leota Campbell, Merle Dodson, Mildred Dyer, Marjorie Fagan, Frances Flagg, Carmela Giagnacova, Doris Johns, Lellis Kallenbach, Helen Kottfolt, Helen Nichols, Jennie Pico, Lillian Popkin. The gowns of these young women were in orchid, rose, yellow, pink, blue, peach and green, there being two wearing the same shades. On the arm of each rested a bouquet of flowers.

Preceding the Queen was her personal attendant, Miss Doris Connor, garbed in a dress of rose color. Next followed the crown bearer, Miss Grace Bigelow.

The Queen of the May, Miss Roberts, was most attractive, and was the center of an admiring group. The Queen, a pleasing blonde type, wore a gown of white, the cape being set off with a Mary, Queen of Scots, collar. The train was borne by Misses June Morgan and Florence Perkins.

The Queen kneeling at the steps leading to the throne chair had the crown placed upon her head by Miss Connor.

Much amusement was caused by the jester, Miss Dorothy Unruh, who wore a clown costume of black and orange. Bells on the garb jingled as the jester of the May Queen's court capered upon the grass. Her face was painted in a grotesque way, and in comic manner did she mimic the herald, the dancers and others participating. Balloons were much in evidence about the person of the jester, who used them from time to time as the herald used her megaphone to announce the dances.

The dances took place about the May pole which was set in the center of a section of the park circled with catalpa trees. The costumes of the many dancers, girls of all ages, were most pleasing, and well fashioned. Music was furnished for the various exercises.

SENATOR GRUNDY GIVEN A PLURALITY OF 6717 IN COUNTY

Complete Returns From The 101 Districts Show He Led the Ticket

BUCKMAN'S BIG LEAD

State Senator Carried County
By Majority of 8126 Over
His Opponent

Complete returns from the 101 election districts in Bucks County give Senator Joseph R. Grundy a plurality of 6717. Senator Grundy ran high on the Bucks County ticket with a total vote of 10,823.

No doubt is left by Tuesday's voting that Bucks Countians enthusiastically supported the Senator.

Davis polled 2683 votes and carried several districts.

Bucks County gave Pinchot a vote of 8652, while Brown polled 3166 and Phillips 2563 for Governor.

State Senator Clarence J. Buckman, of Langhorne, was nominated for reelection on the Republican ticket by a majority of 8126 over his opponent, Charles F. O'Brien, of South Langhorne.

Only 45 per cent of the voters turned out to the primary election, returns indicated.

Two school loans were approved. Upper Southampton Township passed a $70,000 bond issue for the erection of a modern high school building in Southampton, by a vote of 269 to 79. New Britain Borough, voted in favor of an $18,000 loan for the purpose of building a new school.

POPPIES WILL HONOR DECEASED YANKEE BOYS

World War Veterans Have

Daily in Past Year

BUY YOUR POPPIES NOW

When the people of America go to the cemeteries on Memorial Day this year they will find more than 25,000 soldiers' graves which were not there the year before. For the last year World War Veterans have been dying at the average rate of 70 a day, a large part of them from the results of their war service. These men are just as truly victims of the war as those who were killed in battle and the poppies which we wear on Poppy Day will honor them as well as all the other Americans who sacrificed their lives for their country.

It is estimated that 75 per cent of the veterans who have died in the last year left families, averaging two children to the family. This means that nearly 40,000 dependent children have been added in the last year to the thousands whose welfare must be safeguarded by the Legion and Auxiliary. In addition to the children of (Continued on Page 3)

INDEPENDENTS MAKE INITIAL LEAGUE BOW

Win from Croydon Boys
Club by Narrow Margin of One Run

FINAL SCORE READS 8-7

Last night's result
Independents, 8; Croydon, 7
Schedule for tonight
EMILIE vs. A. O. H.

By Thomas Juno

The Independents made their 1930 bow in the Bristol Twilight League by barely nosing out the Croydon Boys' Club last night on St. Ann's field. Final count was 8-7.

Although a slugging match and see-saw affair, the teams managed to play six innings. First the Independents took the lead in the first two innings. Croydon came through in the third with three runs to take the lead. In their half, the "Indies" scored five times to forge ahead again. The lead lasted until the Croydon fifth when the score again went into a deadlock, but the Independents scored the winning run in their part of the fifth.

Jones was on the mound for the winners. He pitched good ball but should not have had such a hard time of it. His support was very ragged, eight errors being committed by his mates and these led to the scoring of the Croydon runs. He fanned eleven batters and should have had two more, only the batters reached first base when the catcher missed the last strike.

Miller began the game for the Croydonites and lasted until the third inning when Holland relieved him. Holland was charged with the defeat because the score was tied in the fifth inning, and winning run scored on him.

"Niggie" Brushia, making his debut in the third frame had a double in his only official time at bat. He was hit by a pitched ball in his other turn.

An odd feature of the game was the fact that Croydon only had two marks in its assist column.

Score by innings:
First—E. Hamm tapped in front of the plate and was thrown out by Laspella; Bock was safe at first when Romeo dropped Greco's peg; Jones tried to catch Bock off first and failed when Romeo did not hold his throw. Trindle grounded to short, Bock going to third; Holland waited for four bad ones and got them; Gleason forced Holland, Tulio to Stallone.

Avella doubled to center; Stallone whiffed; Hibbs lifted a fly to first; Terchon singled over third base, scored. (Continued on Page 6)

GIRLS' WEEK SONG

To Be Sung at Grand Theatre, Saturday
(Tune: "Maine Stein Song")
Words by Mrs. George Miller

Sing, and fill the air with song; sing, 'til the old town hears us.
Come and join with our merry throng; let every girl be in the fuss.
Shout the glad news with a cheer; shout that the first Girls' Week's here—
Here for us to have a good time; the best time of this dear old year.

To our Ma's, to our Pa's, who gave us so much of their time and love;
To the girls, to the boys, to the town that is giving us its support;
To the fun, to the work, to the helpers so many, so tried and true;
To the track, to the coach, to the many amusements for us to do.

Sing and fill the air with song; sing 'til the old town hears us;
Come and join with our happy throng; let every girl be in the fuss.
Shout the glad news with a cheer; shout that the first Girls' Week's here—
Here for us to have a good time, the best time of this dear old year.

ADVERTISING

Julius Caesar told of a tribe that was accounted great because it kept a space of miles all about its borders, totally uninhabited. It thrived by killing off its neighbors.

Business used to have the same ideals. Modern business, which is vastly more efficient and prosperous, has learned a better principle. It welcomes competition and thrives best when its competitors prosper. And the finest fruit of this co-operation is the education of the public through constructive advertising.

When mechanical refrigeration began to demonstrate its convenience, efficiency and economy the prediction was frequent that the ice-man would be put out of business. Not so. The sale of natural ice goes on and prospers. Refrigerating interests say that in spite of the sale of millions of mechanical refrigerators, the sale of ice boxes and iced refrigerators constantly improves. The advertising that put the new devices upon the market educated the public in the value of refrigeration, and the simple ice box came into homes that hitherto had enjoyed no conveniences of the kind.

And thus it is that no advertiser expects or even desires to reap the entire benefits from his advertising program. He must share the good results with his entire occupational group. The advertisers of tooth paste and tooth brushes are spreading the gospel of dental hygiene; the advertiser who pictures correct dress is improving the public taste in apparel; the advertiser of expensive motor cars creates a desire in the mind of the public which increases the sale of automobiles of all price grades; the advertising of business colleges promotes generally the cause of business education.

It has been noted that many newspaper readers turn first to the advertising columns. There is education in them.

Making it easier to fly doesn't make it softer to fall.

Some self-made men leave parts of the job unfinished.

Not all the wooden-headed drivers are found in golf bags.

So live that you can go to the door without wondering if it is a bill collector.

Every man thinks he can cure a cold or raise a family until he gets one of his own.

It is easy for a girl to find a husband. Her difficult problem is finding a single man.

We are for the census if for no other reason than it has inflicted a little of his own punishment upon that questionnaire fiend, Thomas A. Edison.

The estimate of three billion pickles packed in a year in the United States doesn't include the innumerable bills "pickled" by congress and the state legislature.

A good alibi for tardiness in that first-of-the-month remittance is that you only write one check a day because of the danger of getting the check in the wrong envelope.

SYNOPSIS

Having fled to a South Sea island from Stella Blackney's brutal husband, she and David Wade carry on a prosperous trade with the natives. While the ship is gone with their first cargo, David and Stella quarrel about Moira, a half-caste girl living with them since her father's death. She learns that David and Stella are not married and tells Stella she intends to join David. In despair, Stella enters an earless boat and is carried out to sea. David repeats and asks Moira to lead him her schooner to search. Moira refuses unless he marries her.

It showed on the curve of the sea, far away, a scarcely discernible speck. Wade stared at it. That speck was the most significant thing in the world. It was the world itself.

"The cutter!" he echoed. "Might be they picked her up!" cried Lo-oru, voicing the thought that was his, but which he scarcely dared to utter.

Wade sent to the house for his binoculars, and for an hour he stood there on the beach, watching the speck resolve with exasperating slowness into mast and sail and the white streak of a hull, the binoculars to his eyes the while, scanning people in the Solomons. Man-killers and woman-stealers. All the time they do like that. All the time they go out in big war-canoes and fight the small villages. Their chief is a very bad man. His name is Kapa."

"Dolobe!" Wade ordered, "take the two small boats ashore, and the water-bags, and fill the cutter's tank. Hurry! We are going to look for the sinabada."

"She went in canoe?" Dolobe had suddenly remembered Wade's question on coming aboard.

"And there is no paddle in it. She is drifting. That way." He indicated the south. "Now, get a move on! She's been gone all night. I'll tell the crew that they are to leave again at once."

He called them to him; but the villagers had already told them of Stella's disappearance, and they offered their services willingly. At his order they ran to launch the small boats, dropping their oars, with a great splashing. Dolobe laid a hand on Wade's arm.

"Master, did you say she went that way?" He nodded in the direction from which the cutter had come.

"Yes; now, don't stand there—" A sudden look of consternation had come on the native's face. His eyes had grown big and round. His grip of the white man's arm tightened. He lowered his voice.

"Master, yesterday, just before the sun it go down, I saw something out there. It was canoes, I think. Many canoes."

He paused, and looked round as though afraid of being overheard. "Yes, yes; go on!" cried Wade impatiently.

"I think it was the Umus, come back. I am not sure; I only think so. They were long way off. Just little marks on the water."

He lowered his voice still further. "Spouse they been find the sinabada."

Wade could not speak, not even utter an exclamation of horror. The dreadful possibility seemed, for the moment, to disturb the mechanism of speech. He ran to the rail, climbed down into one of the canoes, took up the paddle, and sent it skimming to the shore with all his strength. The small boats were already at the beach, and their men taking the water-bags up to the village spring.

Moira came out from the living-room as he ran up the steps. "She is not on board, eh?" she said. "Lo-oru told me—"

"Get out of my way!" He pushed past her into the room. She followed.

"What is it, David?" He ran to the wall, where hung the revolver and two rifles which had accompanied him in his gold-seeking in the New Guinea hinterland, and took them down.

"There is a chance she had been captured by war-canoes," he said shortly, trying the locks and levers of the rifles as he spoke. "We might need all the weapons we've got."

She came closer to him. She was fully dressed now, in diaphanous white, and her hair was coiled high on her head.

"War-canoes!" she repeated. "The Uma men." He took from a shelf some boxes of cartridges.

"I have heard of them. They are a bad lot." She touched him, tentatively, lightly, as though it were an adventure.

"You—you will be in danger," she said a little quaveringly. "Your father's rifles," he said. "Get them out! And the ammunition for them. Quick! Every minute counts."

For a moment she stood there looking at him, her light touch still upon him. Then she slowly withdrew her hand, and went to her room and brought two rifles and several packages of cartridges.

"David—" she began as she laid them on the table; and her voice was strangely weak and wavering.

Wade half-turned. "Well?"

"There will be danger. You might get hurt." She held out her arms to him in a gesture all the more appealing because it was true and free.

"I—I can't think of you being hurt—being in danger, David—"

"Don't think that anything you can say will prevent me going," he cut in. "You can put that right out of your head."

"Oh, I know you will go! It's not that! David, take me with you! I couldn't stay quietly here while you—you were away out there."

The half-smiling note came into her tone again. "Where you go must I go also. You are my mate. My mate!"

"It's no job for women!" he said gruffly, not a little affected.

"Don't leave me here, David!" Her voice had become deep-toned and resonantly musical, with a throb in it akin to a sob. "I won't stay, anyway."

"I'll follow in the schooner. But I want to be with you—may dear! with you!"

the deck as it grew visible for sign of the white of a dress, and seeing only the brown of the crew-boys' backs. And, when at last the craft had threaded the passage through the reefs and swung up to the anchorage at the lagoon, he boarded one of the canoes in which the villagers were impatiently putting off, and skinned alongside.

Dolobe's fuzzy head looked down at him over the rail. The crew were handling the descended sails and crying messages and greetings to their friends.

"A bad thing has happened, master," said Dolobe excitedly.

Wade scrambled up the side. "Have you found her?" he projected the words rather than spoke them.

"Very nearly they caught us!" Dolobe went on in his excited way, apparently not having heard Wade's question, or having heard it, not understanding it. "We stopped three days at Tema. Three days, that all; and then we started to come back. And half-way we ran right into them. Twenty canoes—war canoes; and every one got night by fifty men, war men with plenty arrows and spears, and their faces all painted—"

"Damn it!" Wade put in. "Why can't you answer me? Did you see anything of the sinabada? Did you?"

Dolobe shook his head and for a moment abandoned the tale of his adventure in order to stare at the white man perplexedly.

"Not see her," he said. "What for we should see her?"

"She is out there somewhere in a canoe."

The native shook his head again. "The only canoe we have seen is the war-canoe."

He went on with an involved and circumlocutory account of how the canoes came still closer and of how flights of spears came quivering in among the crew. Wade scarcely heard him.

"So, at last we turned and get the wind behind us, and sail back quick for Tema," Dolobe was saying. "And very soon we leave them canoes behind. We stopped at Tema till the storekeeper he say he think them canoes all gone. Then we come home."

Wade collected his wits. The coming of the cutter had, after all, improved the situations considerably, he said to himself. He was now independent of Moira.

He turned to Dolobe. The native was finishing his tale.

the dead, there are the children of the disabled. An average of 5,900 veterans entered the government hospitals each month during 1929, very many of them leaving dependent families at home. These facts explain why the welfare work of the Legion and Auxiliary is increasing steadily and why we must sell more poppies this year.

The Pennsylvania Legion Posts and Auxiliary Units will sell more than 1,500,000 poppies this year. The proceeds will be placed in a fund for direct welfare relief and rehabilitation work of disabled veterans and their families. All poppies sold by Pennsylvania Legion Posts and units are made by disabled veterans in government hospitals not receiving compensation from the government. Poppies are made at the following hospitals: U. S. V. B. Hosp. No. 49, Philadelphia; U. S. V. B. Hospital, Perry Point, Md.; U. S. V. B. Hospital, Aspinwall, Pa.; Marine Hospital, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Penna. Soldiers' & Sailors' Home, Erie, Pa.; Penna. State Sanatorium, Mount Alto, Pa. Several thousands of dollars are paid to these comrades by the Pennsylvania Legion for their work and this program enables the disabled comrades to make a few extra dollars for their families at home.

The primary purpose of the poppy sale, of course, is to pay tribute to the World War dead. The wearing of the poppy is a beautiful custom. There is no finer way of showing that the people of America still remember and honor the service and sacrifices of the men who gave their lives for the country. We want every person possible to have this little red symbol of sacrifice on his coat on Poppy Day, and if our poppy sale accomplished nothing else this touching tribute to the dead would be worth the fullest efforts of every Auxiliary member and Legionnaire.

Council last night considered the purchase of a complete card index system for the purpose of keeping the borough's accounts in a more modern and efficient method. The system was demonstrated and the finance committee was authorized to act upon the purchase of the necessary equipment which will be further demonstrated on Friday.

Former Councilman Harris Holmes and John Bailey, contractor, who installed the new sewer system in Doylestown, were before Council last night to explain the position they take on a certain balance still due the contractor on the erection of the sewer here last year. Engineer Boardman, of Philadelphia, who supervised the job, was named as the person responsible for any condition that exists at the present time. Council agreed to invite Boardman to attend an adjourned meeting of Council next Monday night when he can present his side of the case.

Councilman Joseph Steelman, chairman of the water committee, was authorized to extend the water line to the new hosiery mill near Union street. Councilman Joseph J. RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Councilman Bartram K. Moore, chairman of the police committee, reported that 19 arrests were made during the month and that fines amounting to $90 were collected for the borough and $20 for the state.

Engineer Winfield O. Weisel reported on the work he is doing in the borough at the present time. He stated that grades will be desired by Walter Scott in a few weeks for the erection of bungalows on Pine street.

The annual report of the Doylestown Board of Health was read, approved and filed.

Council granted the Philadelphia Electric Company a permit to open part of Garden Alley, Pine street and East Oakland avenue for gas main extension.

An offer by Oscar O. Bean, Horace

High, Louis Schwartz and the Intelligence Company to give the borough a section of pavement for the purpose of widening the street in Monument Square, was accepted by Council. The matter will be taken up with the proper authorities.

RAISING RABBITS IS MONEY MAKING ENTERPRISE

SEARS-ROEBUCK AGRICULTURAL FOUNDATION.

Money is being made with rabbits on many farms, says the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. The rabbit raising industry undoubtedly has a great future.

The decreasing supply of wild fur bearing animals and the increasing use of furs for clothing are steadily increasing the demand for rabbit skin, which is now the most extensively used fur. In the United States, alone, about 100,000,000 rabbit skins are used annually, of which 98 per cent are imported. The flesh of young hutch rabbits resembles the white meat of chicken.

Feed costs of rabbit production are low. Alfalfa hay, oats and barley, and roots especially carrots, and some green feed such as lawn clippings are extensively used. Buildings need not be expensive. By using multiple hutches, a large number may be produced on a small area in back yards.

A prolific doe will easily produce 20 to 25 young in a year. Young rabbits may be bred at 7 to 8 months of age. The Chinchilla, American White, American Blue, New Zealand White, New Zealand Red, and White Flemish are the varieties most extensively produced in the United States.

Size, texture of fur, color, and the care given the pelt after removing are the chief factors in the price of rabbit skins. Fine pelts are often secured by careful handling. Chinchilla White, and Red, in the order named, take precedence over other colors. Marketing methods are being improved so that small breeders are now able to obtain the full commercial value for their pelts, the Foundation adds.

MR. A. B. GRIFFITH

"How I wish I had known of Konjola long ago," said Mr. A. B. Griffith, 3424 Richmond Street, Philadelphia. "For six years I suffered from an aggravated case of dyspepsia. NOTICE

IN THE ORPHANS' COURT OF BUCKS COUNTY

Notice to William Nelson, Annie Nelson, Elizabeth T. Carver and Robert Tomlinson, their heirs and legal representatives and other parties in interest:

Notice is hereby given that on March 24th, 1930, Lida N. White presented a petition to the Orphans' Court of Bucks County setting forth that she is the owner of a certain messuage and tract of land situated in the Township of Falls, County of Bucks, State of Pennsylvania; that said premises, or a portion thereof, are the same premises which Eliza Neeld by her will dated July 18, 1881, and recorded in Will Book No. 21, page 331, etc., devised unto her two sons, Robert Nelson and Jackson Nelson.

The said Eliza Neeld by the terms of her said will provided for the following legacies:

William Nelson	$100.00
Annie Nelson	5.00
Elizabeth T. Carver	50.00
Robert Tomlinson	5.00

The said premises devised by the said Eliza Neeld to her sons, Robert Nelson and Jackson Nelson as aforesaid are a part of the premises now owned by the petitioner. There is no release, satisfaction or sufficient discharge of record showing the payment of the said $100.00 to William Nelson, $5.00 to Annie Nelson, $50.00 to Elizabeth T. Carver and $5.00 to Robert Tomlinson.

A period of twenty-one years or more has elapsed since the principal of said charges became due and payable and no payment has been made within said period on account of said charges or any of them by your petitioner or any of her predecessors in title.

The names of all known parties interested in said testamentary charges or legacies are the said William Nelson, Annie Nelson, Elizabeth T. Carver and Robert Tomlinson; and that the names of no other parties interested or their place of residence are known to the petitioner.

The petition filed prayed the Court to grant a citation upon all parties in interest, requiring them to appear in Court on the day designated to show cause why said land should not be discharged from the lien of said testamentary charges or legacies.

Whereupon the said Court awarded a citation in accordance with the prayer of said petition and the sheriff made due return thereof that the same had not been served because the said parties could not be found and have no known residence.

Whereupon on motion of Buckman & Buckman, Esqs., attorneys for petitioner, the Court did on the 6th day of May, 1930, award a second citation directed to the said William Nelson, Annie Nelson, Elizabeth T. Carver and Robert Tomlinson, and their legal representatives and other parties in interest, requiring them to appear in the Orphans' Court of Bucks County at Doylestown on the 9th day of June, 1930, at 10 o'clock A. M., Eastern Standard Time, then and there to show cause why the petitioner's land should not be discharged from the lien of said testamentary charges or legacies, which under the will of the said Eliza Neeld were made payable to William Nelson, Annie Nelson, Elizabeth T. Carver and Robert Tomlinson; and it was further ordered and decreed that notice of said citation briefly stating forth the facts set forth in the said petition, directing said parties to appear at the time and place aforesaid, be published, etc. You are hereby notified and required to be and appear in the Orphans' Court of Bucks County at Doylestown on 9th day of June, 1930, at 10 o'clock a. m., Eastern Standard Time, then and there to show cause why said land should not be released from the lien of said testamentary charges or legacies.

Paradise

Oh, I'd like to be a hermit on a tiny tropic isle

Where the soothing breezes murmur and a tan's the only style;

Where you feast upon bananas, when they ripen near at hand;

And the total population is the bushes, you, and sand.

Where the only occupation is to sit

beneath a tree
And to count the bounding billows as they form upon the sea,
Or to watch the clouds a-drifting and to make a rough surmise
On the number, shape and color of the ones in other skies.
If the place is in existence I am sure beyond a doubt
Some dynamic real estate has the whole thing plotted out,
And he's covered it with billboards saying, "Live in Paradise."

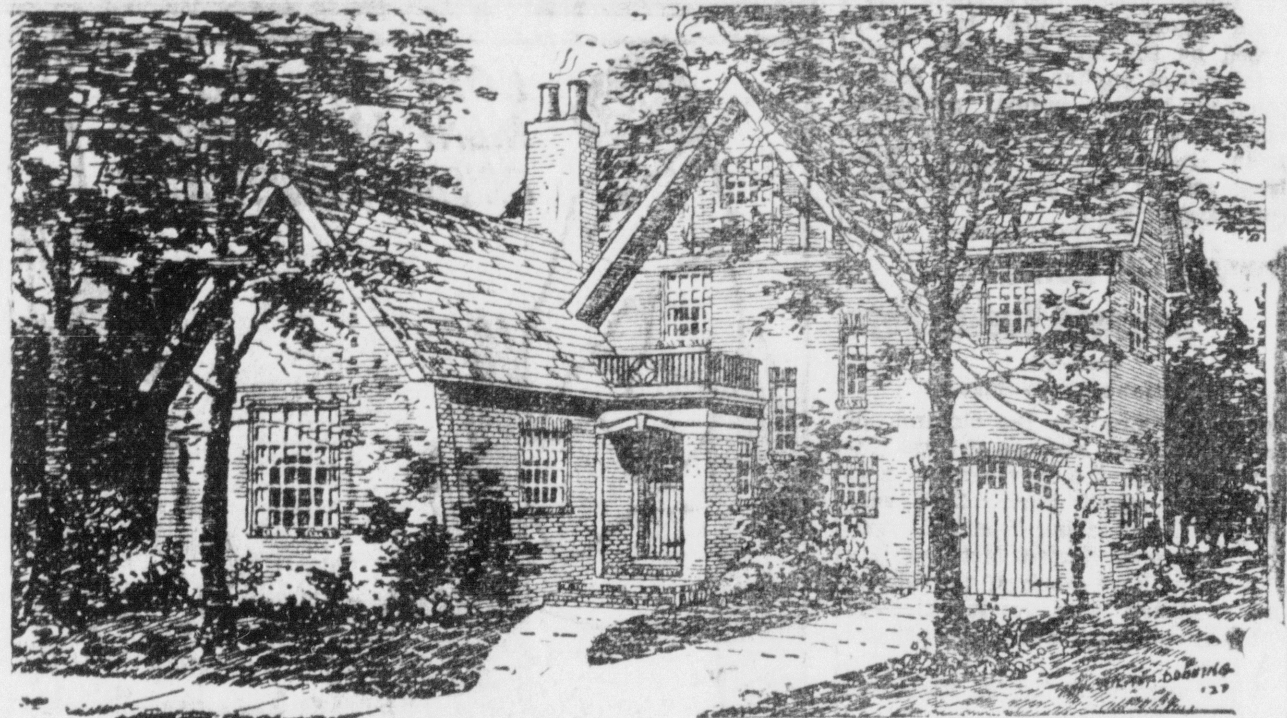

"All Arranged for Monthly Payments," "Come and See About the Price."

It's easy to be liberal when we're spending another man's money.

Bristol Doctor (having painted the patient's neck for sore throat): "Three dollars, please."

Patient (indignantly): "Three dollars? Why, last week I had my entire kitchen painted for two-fifty."

Pleasing Exterior with Distinctive Plan

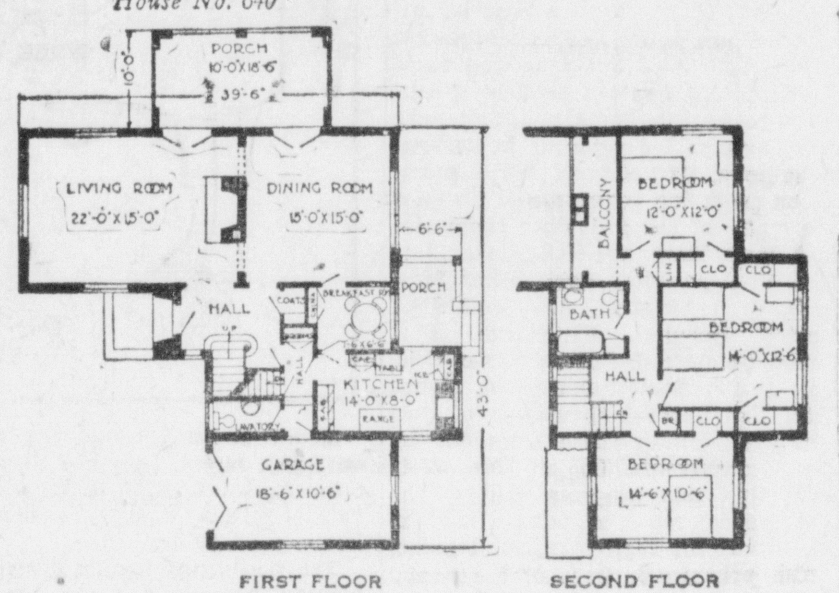

House No. 640

SIMPLE gables in a charmingly broken roof line give to this house an appearance that is at once attractive and inviting. The roof sweeps down over the attached garage, lending to the home a feeling that it is larger than really is the case. This feeling is enhanced by the skillful use of face brick on the exterior walls.

The wide variety of colors available in face brick, together with the many charming textures, are utilized to help give the home the individuality that is so much sought. The color of the mortar used to bind the brick together is carefully chosen at the same time the color for the face brick is selected, for harmony and pleasing appearance in the finished wall is best secured in this way.

It is rather unusual to find a home with charming exterior design that has a truly distinctive floor plan, yet the two have been fully combined here.

As one comes in through the entrance advantageously placed in the corner, he finds the stairs leading to the upper floor on the right; on the left are the openings to the dining and living rooms. The living room is of the studio type and has a height of 15 feet, the ceiling being beamed. In this room is the fireplace with exposed chimney that extends up through the balcony around the room. On either side of the fireplace are arched openings which lead directly into the dining room. Casement doors connect both living and dining rooms with the porch shown on the plan.

SECOND FLOOR

Between the dining room and kitchen is a sun-lit breakfast room with a china cabinet. The kitchen is equipped with cabinets conveniently located, and opens onto an ample rear porch. A connecting hall contains a broom closet and affords access to the basement, lavatory, and

On the second floor are three good-sized bedrooms, one having windows on three sides and the other two having two windows each for good light and ventilation. An arched opening off the hall leads to the balcony above the living room.

Both first and second floors of this house have 8 foot 6 inch ceilings and the living room has a height of 15 feet. Cubic content of the house is 38,000 cubic feet.

If you are interested in working drawings for House No. 640, the editor of this paper will gladly tell you where they may be obtained.

In a banker it's Integrity

in a cigarette it's Taste

GOOD REPUTATION and high standards—these are among the banker's chief assets. Likewise, Chesterfield's.

SMOKERS THE WORLD OVER stick to Chesterfield because of its thorough dependability of quality, its unchanging good taste.

GOOD TASTE!—What smoker would trade it for any number of cigarette claims? No Chesterfield smoker would. For here choice tobaccos are blended and cross-blended to a finer aroma and a richer, milder flavor to give you the utmost a cigarette can offer... "TASTE above everything".

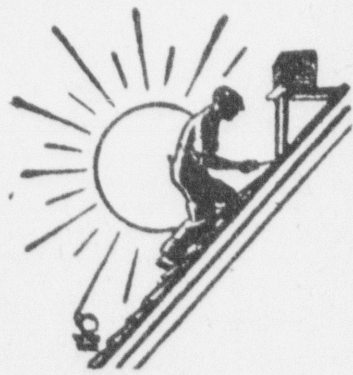

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.
